A MUCH NEEDED CAMPAIGN

Following is an article taken from the September issue of the Crisis Magazine under caption "Education."

"We have 1200 students in Northern colleges and graduated 200 in arts; from our college we sent out 592 graduates. We have risen annually. Gratifying as this record is, it is below, far below our needs. If the Negro American is to keep abreast of this country intellectually he must graduate 3200 men and women from college each year instead of 800. This means redoubled, indeed quadrupled effort to send our sons and daughters to college."

It appears to me that there is no better field of real campaigning than that of enlisting our boys and girls in large numbers for college education. Hundreds of young men and women are rushing out into life without ample preparation only to hamper and be hampered in the great event of our present civilization which makes such a rigid demand for specialists in every walk and profession of life. I know of no greater field to set our forces to work than in the field of leading thousands of our youth into universities and colleges for preparation to serve. Mr. DuBois contends that we must graduate not 800, but 3200. I hold that even Mr. DuBois gives a very conservative estimate. We should graduate 8000 per year so as to raise the standard to a reasonable level of intellectual efficiency.

MUCH FROM LITTLE

Notwithstanding the fact that the motorman starts the car just as you reach it panting for breath, or fails to hear you when you have almost broken the glass to the "Front Entrance" and knocked your knuckles sore, the motorman is his "brother's keeper" and as such sets up some principles worthy of emulation.

Have you ever observed what desperate chances autoists and pedestrians take in rushing across a street car after the gong has sounded and the car has started moving? Did you notice the response or reaction of the motorman? What would have been the result had he responded as the flash came to your mind to react under the circumstances?

It seems that in the smooth running of traffic and the preservation of life in the streets of our busy city, the motorman at the wheel displays some strong traits of character through his exercise of patience, self-control and his unselfish regard for the other fellow.

Patience, self-control, altruism are masters in themselves. Cultivate them more, exercise them much. Mark your progress!

BILLIARD CAROMS

"And having writ moves on"
"Nor all your prayers nor tears"
"Can change one word of it."

Where'n the Acts of today are history tomorrow, make for a more careful life than if one should suppose that each day closes that accounts.

The healthful effect of Billiard playing may be noted among our members, the firm stand, alert walk, the easy swing of the body, the clear vision and above all else, the moral tone that honest competition alone can give.

Bennie Ridley piled up 21 points in continuous Pocket Billiards in his contest with Mr. Brawner of Chicago. This is high run for August.

The "Y" ALL BILLIARDS LEAGUE places their Defiance on record and the following members are Defenders of "Y" honors:

The matching of players resulted up to date in the following pairs:

"Y" ALL BILLIARD LEAGUE— BILLIARD PLAYERS ASSOCIATION

Dr. H. C. Buster vs D. W. Bowles
Hutchins Inge vs Dr. Kelly
Ben Ridley vs Paige Brown
William Cody vs Carlisle

THESE STRAIGHT RAIL MATCHES ARE FOR THREE STRINGS OF 50 POINTS EACH

D. W. Bowles and Dr. Buster play their first string Monday at 6:30 p. m.

Bowles broke and led with 5 to 8 counts up to the 35th when Buster came from an impossible lie and made a perfect gather and by careful nursing counted 37, then Bowles got his soft velvet kisses working and made his 48th with Buster at 42, but his miss on his 49th was just what was needed to steady Buster down for his much needed 5 which were acquire by two perfect MASSES and an open table nurse for the 6 shells needed and victory was the 'Y's.

Inge believes his speed and enurance will bring him victory over Dr. Robinson's draws and 3 rail plays and at 5:30 Thursday when they cross cues the fans will be given a real treat.

Henry Stovall finds his stroke ever so often and when he masters his stance, draw and masse, will be a real contender.

Mr. Lambkin has developed a deadly nurse and his three angle volleys are getting very narrow.

For speed and rapid strikes Ridley is in a class to himself and will let Paige Brown know that it is Billiards that he plays.

Fred Jones has come back and the Billiard fans must take note of this fact, for Fred has the same wizardry with the Cue that made Frank Ives the master of them all.

George Draper has his eagle eye upon continuous pockets supremacy and he still announces 'I wash 'em away.'

A. L. Harrison does Bank from the break and he believes himself the Bank Premier of our city.

THROUGH THE TATTLER'S SPYGLASS

I am very proud of my new position since my salary has been raised. I am now drawing $180.00 every month; $90 to attend to other people's business and $90 to let my own alone. I like it.

Mr. J. W. H. was asked what was his ideal conception of Heaven. He replied: "Frankly, fellows, my ideal Heaven is a big billiard room with twenty tables, plenty cold drinks with C. C., G. W. D., H. S. and Dr. B. there as angels. All I need then is a pair of golden slippers."

Mr. W. B. H. has gotten so sweet that he has to sleep with pails of water around his bed to keep the "Sugar Ants" off him. He has to stay in doors during the day to keep the honey bees from lighting on him. He is rather restless.

I see Mr. C. A. D. wearing eye glasses—which is a true sign of love and jealousy.

I have known Mr. B. G. S. for three years. He is a fine chap. I saw him for the first time the other day with his lady friend. She was a brunette with blue eyes and a lovely disposition. It was dark and I couldn't see well without my glasses.

Wonder why R. K. S. has to go by the Cafeteria EVERY afternoon before going home from work?

Assistant Physical Director must have devoted his time, while at Camp River Cliff, to the study of the Darwinian Theory or to the review of the Scopes Trial: for he looked real apish about his chin upon his return. Be ware, my son! Beware!

"He who laughs last, laughs best." What about that brother who don't laugh at all? (F. S. B.)

I just can't understand it; I can't just stand under it fellows—A young man blows out of the Cafeteria after having taken a glass of ice water and just picks his teeth as though he had eaten a $5.00 steak. Name him?

A certain dignitary is seen each morn reading the cross-word puzzle. It appears to me that to him the whole newspaper is a cross word puzzle and that he would find the comic section of far greater interest and certainly less complicated. (Chief inhabitant "Y" Lawn) J. W. H.
